CHAPTER #165

Chairman's Corner

With the year coming to a close, I am very excited for the remaining luncheons. This month our very own Darrell Clifton and Al Zajic are hosting an Active Shooter training program. Given their knowledge and experience, I can personally guarantee this training will improve your understanding and application of these principles in the workplace. For the month of November, we welcome in next year's leadership for our Chapter. I strongly encourage all members to attend this meeting, we have some great opportunities to become involved with the chapter. The more people we have contributing the easier it is to produce these great results. Come out to help select the 2014 group of individuals who will continue to maintain the level of success we have all grown accustomed to. And finally, in December, we show our appreciation for the men and women of our local law enforcement agencies. I would like to thank every member involved with putting together two great programs to finish 2013 and all of those who accept Chapter roles next year.

Chapter Chairman
John Puccioni

Contract vs. Proprietary Presentation

KINROSS

Chairman Puccioni introduced the guest speaker, Jay Martin, CFI, CPP, CFE from Kinross Gold. Mr. Martin is the Manager of Projects & Exploration Security on a global level and presented a case study of a proposed transition from proprietary (in-house) security to contract security. His interactive presentation took the form of him presenting a business case to the “decision-makers” (group), and then asked them to make their decision at the end of the presentation. He provided ample background information, pros and cons of the transition, full financial analysis and linked the various options to the company’s core values. After taking a poll and getting everyone’s vote, including the reasons why they chose their respective options, he then presented the actual decision taken by his company...the results were surprising. Finally, he presented the reasons for their actual decision and lessons learned, to help others who may have to undertake such an analysis in the future. The chapter would like to thank MR. Martin for taking the time and sharing this research at the last meeting, thank you again Jay!

Please direct any questions or inquiry you may have about the presentation or related material to, Jay Martin.

Update to ASIS Certification CPE Policy

Effective Jan. 1, 2015, CPPs, PCIs, and PSPs are now required to earn 60 CPEs every three years. In addition, PCIs and PSPs can now earn CPE credit for volunteer and management activities.

The latest in the ASIS Foundation's Connecting Research in Security to Practice (CRISP) report series, Situational Crime Prevention and Supply Chain Security, authored by Harald Haelterman, PhD, provides a reference guide on how best to approach the introduction of situational crime prevention program in a business environment.

The report focuses on situational crime prevention in domestic and international supply chains and presents a consecutive six-stage approach, emphasizing the importance of addressing challenges early in the process and focusing on the selection of alternative measures to mitigate identified and acknowledged risks.

This is the tenth report in the CRISP Report series.

Dear ASIS Member:

With your support, ASIS International (ASIS) has grown steadily over the past decade and has evolved to meet the diverse needs of security management professionals worldwide. Like many other professional associations, ASIS must periodically review its operating costs and the anticipated future improvement of benefits, programs, and services. A thorough financial review undertaken by the ASIS Board of Directors has determined a need to implement a dues increase of $45—to $195 annually—effective January 1, 2014. Our dues were last raised in 2003.

Prior to making this decision, the Board thoroughly explored all alternatives to this action, but determined that this is necessary if ASIS is to continue to provide the scope, breadth, and quality of current services, while also building offerings for future generations in the profession. A few of our major membership-related developments since 2003 are:

- 38,000 members today vs. 33,000 in 2003
- 45 newly chartered chapters since 2003
- Four Regional Advisory Councils created—Europe, Middle East, Asia-Pacific, Latin America
- Eight new Standards published since the program began in 2008
- Eight new Guidelines published since 2003
- CSO Roundtable established to meet the needs of senior security professionals from the largest and most influential organizations in the world
- Two new certifications introduced in 2003—PCI and PSP
- Europe, Asia-Pacific, Middle East Bureaus opened
- Three global conferences added—New York, Asia-Pacific, Middle East
- Digital offering of Security Management magazine
- Increased offerings of alternative education delivery systems for members, i.e., webinars

As we move forward, the Board, along with the volunteer leadership and staff, plan to continue to build upon our strategic initiatives and expand the services we provide to the membership globally.

ASIS remains dedicated to the promotion of excellence and leadership in the global community of security management professionals. In line with this commitment, we appreciate your membership and your support.

Sincerely,

Geoff Craighead, CPP
President
